What does REACH Sophis do?

A significant part of the cost of Furnishings products is material cost.

In a competitive furnishings market, the ability to provide furnishings at prices attractive to customers while protecting margins for the firm is critical to survive, grow and thrive.

A lot of material is wasted in furnishings manufacture, as the optimal packing of patterns involves very, many permutations and combinations. This would be a challenging task even for a highly skilled pattern lay planner.

REACH Sophis leverages new generation, powerful Artificial Intelligence (AI) tools to create optimal layouts of patterns saving significant quantities of material.

REACH Sophis will enable you create an effective material cost management system.
